

Indigo prose for local wordsmith

A MARGARET River writer has been published in the new Indigo journal, which will be launched next week.

Miranda Aitken's work was selected from more than 500 pieces from around WA for inclusion in the book that encourages unknown WA writers to be published.

Much of the prose in the first edition is set in the South West.

Managing editor Donna Ward said "So often our local talent leave WA to pursue writing careers. Indigo gives WA writers a reason to stay here."

Indigo will be launched in Margaret River at River Tales Bookshop on Friday, August 17, at 6pm with readings from local writers.
